At the beginning of the year the foundation considered the impact we wanted to have on our region and what legacy we could leave behind.

It was a challenging process.

We began by asking ourselves the question, “How can we make a larger impact?”

This question took us in many directions, but ultimately, resulted in clarity: Our vision is to be a trusted leader in engaged charitable giving and provide accessible, inclusive and sustainable philanthropy.

Your enthusiasm and engagement with the foundation fueled our process. Without your insight, feedback and commitment to philanthropy, we would not have been able to grant the Rappahannock River region with $2.45 million in the past fiscal year (June 2021-July 2022). Millions of dollars supported our community because of your commitment to making a difference.

Thank you for entrusting us to serve our region in an accessible, inclusive, and sustainable manner; it is the driving force behind all we do.

Without the strategic thought of the Board and our immensely talented staff, the foundation’s vision would not have come together so clearly. Despite the unpredictability of the past few years, the foundation’s mission and work continues to leave a lasting impact. We have seen our region become a more accessible, inclusive and sustainable community in many ways.

This legacy is only possible due to your investment in long-term solutions to support the critical and evolving needs of our community. Leaving such a legacy would not have been possible without your commitment to philanthropy.

“Thank You,” is not enough.

Ben Maxwell
President 2021 - 2022

The Nonprofit Leadership Workshop Series started by addressing needs in our community. When the pandemic hit, the foundation pivoted to ask the regional nonprofits what they needed to serve our community under these new circumstances. When the foundation formalized this process, systematically hearing from executive directors, programming was born.

The Community Foundation teamed up with the Center for Nonprofit Excellence and Germanna Community College to offer a series of workshops to equip our region’s nonprofit leaders with the latest professional training by industry experts.

Those first meetings held virtually, blossomed into executive directors bouncing ideas off one another and staff sharpening skills by sharing together in person. Each workshop addresses a topic requested in those initial meetings with the foundation.

One of The Community Foundation’s main objectives is to strengthen the capacity of the nonprofits serving our area through training and professional development. With appreciation to the several donors who supported the series, capacity building for area nonprofits will continue by addressing their own needs to best serve their constituents.

“I learned a lot, very worth my time invested.” “Great content, relevant topic.” “Exceptionally well done.”

Donors Value Tax Credits

The Virginia Education Improvement Scholarship Tax Credits program allows The Community Foundation to provide scholarships to students from low-income families to attend qualified independent schools including Fredericksburg Academy, Holy Cross Academy and Fredericksburg Christian School.

The Community Foundation is an approved scholarship foundation by the Virginia Department of Education.

The foundation receives donations to the program from donors like you, processes 65% Virginia tax credits to donors, and distributes scholarships to qualifying students who attend participating non-public schools in our area.

John Fick heard about the tax credits program through the foundation newsletter. “I had used Virginia tax credits in years past with different land conservation programs but they don’t provide the same amount of tax credit the educational scholarships provide. It’s a win-win for me and the community. I get a nice credit on my Virginia state income taxes and the foundation receives a gift from me to further educational opportunity for local students.”

Giving was especially important to John during the pandemic. He realized the strain nonprofits felt when they had to forgo in person fund raising opportunities. “It’s always a pleasure working with The Community Foundation. I was a past Board member and have supported their efforts for many years. I especially enjoy working with the staff, during Ring in the Holidays, and shucking oysters.”

Rosemarie and John McKeown used to take their children to events at Mary Washington College and Community Orchestra, now the UMW Philharmonic Orchestra. They value the well roundedness of music education. Their daughter, Erin McKeown, is a singer-songwriter and John is on The Fredericksburg Symphony Board of Directors. The McKeown’s see the tax credit program as a way to support music education because, “students learn to work together, participate and follow a leader,” John said.

“The Community Foundation is an effective and efficient way to pay it forward,” John explained. He appreciates that giving through the foundation removes the administrative burden.

Laura and Jerry Belotti heard about the tax credits program from another program participant. “We believe in education and giving back to the community,” they said, and, “we believe in the foundation” Jerry added. They know how valuable these scholarships are to students.
Christina Clark’s energy emanates. Christina is the Founder and Executive Director of STEM (Science Technology Engineering and Math) Education and Innovation Center. Her first grant award came from the Women and Girls Fund. “I was given an opportunity; someone opened a door,” Christina shared.

Christina turned that grant into a STEM opportunity for local girls and gained momentum for her organization to have a greater impact through partnerships. “Live Ballot was the first time I was able to tell my story,” Christina said with tears. Live Ballot is an exclusive opportunity for members of the Women and Girls Fund to hear from organizations in person and vote for the nonprofit finalist that should be awarded the grant. “I love Live Ballot because you hear in my heart how passionate I am,” Christina explained.

Through Live Ballot for the 2022 grant cycle, the Women and Girls Fund of The Community Foundation granted a total of $50,000 to three deserving organizations in support of their programs to address the needs of local women and girls.

- $20,268 to Lloyd F. Moss Free Clinic, Focus on Women’s Health Program
- $14,732 to Rappahannock Area YMCA, YMCA Power Scholars Academy program
- $15,000 to STEM Education and Innovation Center, Techbridge Girls and Virginia-Out-of-School Time program
The Community Foundation has accomplished so much since our founding in 1997 and the work is truly a community effort. The vision to build a flourishing philanthropic community of those ten founding Board members gains exponential momentum each year. Thank you to all our Board members, fund holders, donors, professional advisors and community for your continued support over the past 25 years and in the years ahead.

This year we are celebrating by doing what we do best, grantmaking from over 180 charitable funds to nonprofits in our region. The Community Foundation awarded $2.45 million in grant funding to nonprofits including $125,000 through the year-long 25th anniversary grant cycle.

The foundation is awarding these grants during our anniversary year celebration, March through February, in three rounds. Each cycle supports an area of focus; preservation, arts and cultural organizations, environmental and animal welfare organizations and education, health and human services.

Nonprofit applicants are asked; how will this grant help you invest in your future and how will this investment enhance your organization’s accessibility, inclusivity and sustainability? This is communication of the stories and impact partnering with the foundation has in addition to the celebrations.

We have amplified our reach and will continue to do so with a renewed intention through our strategic plan. The Board of Governors and staff worked together to provide a map focusing our efforts into the next five years. Putting values into action we will pursue specific strategies around community impact, technology innovations and donor support to achieve our vision.

The Community Foundation continues to build capacity through our grantmaking, programs and initiatives.

Accessibility, inclusivity and sustainability are reflected in both the foundation’s values and our core strategies. Our Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) initiative moves us forward consciously.

The Nonprofit Leadership Cohort exemplifies the foundation’s flexibility. As a trusted leader in engaged charitable giving, local nonprofits shared with us what tools they desired. We facilitated collective workshops to build a sense of community while supporting local organizations with whom we collaborate.

The Women and Girls Fund enriches our community by addressing the needs of area women and girls. The membership is a giving circle with a goal of 1000 women giving $1,000 each toward a million-dollar endowment. Thoughtful grant making can begin to move social change.

The foundation celebrates those who have entrusted us to be stewards of charitable resources. Just like a small pebble can cause ripples in a pond, the efforts of a few will be magnified by many. We look forward to continuing the compounding impact from the first 25 years with the many years ahead.

Shatiera Walker was nervous when her mother suggested that she join Youth in Philanthropy (YIP) – the youth led program at The Community Foundation. A rising junior and the only participant from Spotsylvania High School, she took the leap and many new opportunities followed, including learning about key issues that affect youth in our community.

During a site visit, Shatiera remembers Downtown Greens youth participants, “the children showed us how they grew food, made it and even fed us.” She credits YIP with helping to transform her shyness into confidence. “YIP instilled in me the idea to make room for yourself.”

Building new skills around understanding the challenges in her community wasn’t the only thing Shatiera learned. Along with participation in YIP, she successfully won scholarships from the foundation, including The Mary Carter Frackelton Scholarship and Seay Family Scholarship in 2021. The foundation was delighted when Shatiera returned as an intern in the summer of 2022.

This spring, Shatiera will graduate early from Old Dominion University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Speech-Language Pathology & Audiology and plans to pursue a graduate degree next Fall. “Thank you for all the opportunities,” Shatiera reflected. “It is all about advocacy.”

In one of our initial meetings the comment was made, “If we don’t start now, just think how far this community will be behind in 25 years.” That comment created a sense of urgency with me and others to take immediate action. Twenty-five years later, thanks to the outstanding work of our staff, the dedication of the Board, and the generosity of our community, we can celebrate the achievements of the foundation and its impact in our community today.

When my family came to Fredericksburg, we were impressed with what a genuine treasure the region was. I was surprised that much of the philanthropy and other resources of this outstanding area were concentrated out-of-town. The greatest potential of the foundation is its unique position to help local people claim a future that can match or even outstrip the dynamic history we share as citizens. The best is yet to come!

I’m so proud that 25 years ago we had the courage to start with an idea and no money to do something for the future of our community. I knew from years of law practice and a familiarity with the community foundation model, we had the same ability as other areas to foster permanent and impactful giving. I wish the current and future Board and staff success in continuing this task.

When we started The Community Foundation, we had a dream of creating a collection of permanent funds that could make real differences in our community. In 25 years, grants of $165,865,989 have indeed made differences. Given the generosity of our community, I dream of what the next 25 years will bring.

- Harry Dickinson

I was honored to participate in the creation of The Community Foundation. For me, it was about providing more opportunities for donors to give to causes they supported. Also, to create the future we wanted for our community as well as provide for current needs. Congratulations on a job well done!

It was an honor to be asked to help in the formation of an organization focused on building a culture of philanthropy in our community. Giving back has always been very important to me and my family and The Community Foundation helps others do the same!

Doug Stewart

Twenty-five years ago, as an estate planner, I recognized my clients had the desire to make lasting charitable gifts. After attending a seminar about community foundations, I knew we had to make that happen here. We all worked hard to support the dream of bringing a community foundation to the area and I'm proud to have played a small part.

The Community Foundation’s annual “Ring in the Holidays” event has ushered in Fredericksburg’s festive season for years. The sold-out fundraiser provides critical operating support for the foundation.

“Ring in the Holidays is more than a party. It’s essential to the foundation’s mission and enables us to work as advocates for our region,” says Executive Director Teri McNally.

Thank you to the many individuals, families, and businesses who supported the mission and work of the foundation this year.

Thank you to our sponsors who make Ring in the Holidays possible.
